this reader has been designed to accompany giltrow s academic writing one of the key principles of which is that there is a close connection between the processes of reading and of writing academic prose each reading is preceded by introductory commentary questions and suggestions for discussion and the book also includes a brief general introduction as with Giltrow's academic writing her academic reading is a challenging text at its core are examples of actual academic writing of the sort that students must learn to deal with daily and to write themselves as newcomers to the scholarly community students can find that community's ways of reading and writing mysterious unpredictable and intimidating academic reading demystifies the scholarly genres shedding light on their discursive conventions throughout academic reading respects the student writer it engages the reader's interest without ever condescending and it avoids entirely the arbitrary and the dogmatic the second edition is expanded to include twenty one selections nineteen of which come from scholarly publications and more than half of which are new to this edition how do children determine which identity becomes paramount as they grow into adolescence and early adulthood which identity results in patterns of behaviour as they develop to whom or to which group do they feel a sense of belonging how might children adolescents and young adults negotiate the gap between their own sense of identity and the values promoted by external influences the contributors explore the impact of globalization and pluralism on the way most children and adolescents grow into early adulthood they look at the influences of media and technology that can be felt within the living spaces of their homes competing with the religious and cultural influences of family and community and consider the ways many children and adolescents have developed multiple and virtual identities which help them to respond to different circumstances and contexts they discuss the ways that many children find themselves in a perpetual state of shifting identities without ever being firmly grounded in one potentially leading to tension and confusion particularly when there is conflict between one identity and another this can result in increased anxiety and diminished self esteem this book explores how parents educators and social and health workers might have a raised awareness of the issues generated by plural identities and the overpowering human need to belong so that they can address associated issues and nurture a sense of wholeness in children and adolescents as they grow into early adulthood
