in the solo for piano from cage s concert for piano and orchestra 1957 58 none of cage s previous works had employed more than a single type of notation in contrast the solo for piano consists of eighty four notational types ranging from standard line and staff notation to extravagant musical graphics the notational complexity of the solo for piano led tudor to write out or realize a performance score from which he played at the premiere of the concert for piano and orchestra in may 1958 the next spring when cage requested music to complement his ninety minute lecture indeterminacy tudor created a second realization for which he devised a new temporal structure to implement cage s notations this edition of tudor s second realization of the solo for
