a pioneering study that examines the social cultural and religious development of norwegian americans in the agricultural communities of rural minnesota in a history of norwegian immigration to the united states george t flom meticulously chronicles the waves of norwegian immigrants who sought new beginnings in america from the mid 19th to the early 20th centuries the book is marked by flom's scholarly rigor employing historical documents personal narratives and demographic data to paint a vivid tapestry of experiences his keen analysis places the norwegian diaspora within the broader context of european immigration highlighting cultural exchanges and the socio economic factors that shaped both norway and the united states during this transformative period george t flom was a prominent figure in the field of scandinavian studies and his extensive background in linguistics and history informed his passionate exploration of norwegian immigration his own scandinavian roots and firsthand accounts of immigrant communities provided him with a unique perspective fostering an empathetic understanding of the challenges faced and resilience exhibited by these early settlers. His expertise lends authenticity to the narrative making the analysis both scholarly and accessible. This seminal work is highly recommended for anyone interested in the intricate history of immigration in america or the cultural legacies of the norwegian people. Scholars, students, and general readers alike will find his exploration both enlightening and essential for understanding the foundations of norwegian american identity.

Norway received its name from the nearby rural community of settlers from Norway in the area known as the Fox River Settlement. The village was the center of Norwegian immigration dating to 1834. The settlers had in large part relocated from the Kendall Settlement in New York State which had been founded earlier by pioneers who arrived from Norway during 1825 aboard the Restauration Norwegian American Pioneer Leader C. L. Eng person founded this second settlement in the Fox River Valley of Illinois.
